Updates from Council President & Committee Chairs
 The Legislative Matters Committee will hold a public hearing on proposed changes to the city charter on Monday, March 2, 2020 at 7 p.m. in council chambers, Councilor Dwight announced. Many have heard the Charter Review Committee’s recommendations, but the chair and co-chair will be there to reiterate their presentation and provide more opportunity for community input and discussion. The hearing is the final step before bringing proposed changes to the full council for final action. Everyone is invited to come to speak to the changes or to hear what’s being proposed.

 Councilor Jarrett noted that the hearing is not yet on the city calendar and Councilor Dwight said a public hearing notice is in the process of being posted.

Recognitions and One-Minute Announcements by Councilors

Recognitions and One-Minute Announcements by Councilors
 Councilor Jarrett updated members on the activities of the Complete Count Committee, the local volunteer group formed to increase awareness and encourage participation in the federal census. It’s very important to get a complete count for proper representation on the local, state and national level but also for the funding it brings, he stressed. It is estimated that communities bring in $2,400 per person from various sources. It is safe – no personal information is shared with anyone, including other government departments, and this is the first census which offers the opportunity to respond online. Certain groups historically have been undercounted – people of color - especially men aged 18 to 49 - low-income renters, both urban and rural, single female headed households, etc. The area around Smith College is the lowest responding area, followed by downtown and the northern part of Ward 5 with public housing complexes such as Forsander Apartments and Meadowbrook. He is asking anyone listening and councilors themselves to communicate the importance of this to their constituents and be thinking of ways to reach underrepresented populations in their wards. There are also job opportunities – the census is still very much hiring.

 As they head into pothole season, Councilor Nash reminded residents that the way to report a pothole is to go to the Public Works page on the city website and click on the link to report a pothole.

 The last override forum is this Monday, February 24, 2020 at the Leeds Elementary School at 7 p.m., Councilor Maiore announced.

 City Clerk Pam Powers writes that the City Clerk’s office needs election poll workers, Councilor Dwight reported. Workers are needed to cover information desks at the senior center and Smith Vocational and Agricultural School. Some familiarity with all Northampton voting locations is

	desirable. Pay is $12.75 an hour. Individuals are also needed at all voting locations to work as inspectors. Anyone interested should complete an application. And, early voting is next week from February 24, 2020 to February 28, 2020 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for both the special municipal election and the presidential primary, Councilor Sciarra announced. Extended voting hours are available Thursday, February 27th until 7 p.m.

He'll give him a source for his information, he said. He thinks it's great that Northampton charges 5%, Councilor Jarrett assured. If there is an opportunity to lower it further, he wondered aloud how that would be decided. The Mayor said he would try to find that out. Councilor Dwight said it would be worth discussing as a possible addition to the charter. Mayor Narkewicz said he would not be in favor of putting interest rates in the charter since they are subject to change but they could look at it. Councilor Foster asked if he had an anticipated number of people who might take advantage of the program under the expanded income guidelines. She voiced the assumption that it would be a small enough number that the city would be able to absorb it in the budget. Mayor Narkewicz said he didn't know how many would choose to participate. confirmed. The Assessors are required to maintain an Overlay Account to fund abatements and exemptions of committed real and personal property taxes for any fiscal year, he explained.

Members asked questions to clarify details of the program. The total amount of taxes deferred may not exceed fifty percent (50%) of the owner’s proportional share of the property, Councilor Jarrett clarified.

Councilor Maiore said she wished it could go beyond seniors to others who would fit into this bracket who are facing hardship.

Mayor Narkewicz acknowledged there are other people facing struggles. “For now these are the programs we’re trying to avail ourselves of,” he said.

The motion passed unanimously 9:0 by roll call vote.

Councilor Sciarra read the ordinance as forwarded with a positive recommendation by Legislative Matters. It was noted that a few minor amendments have been proposed by the Office of Planning & Sustainability since Legislative Matters' approval.

Councilor Dwight moved to approve the ordinance in first reading. Councilor LaBarge seconded.

Mayor Narkewicz said he was told there was a pretty extensive hearing in Legislative Matters and that the chair would potentially be able to recount the discussion.

Councilor Dwight summarized the discussion in Legislative Matters. The only objection raised was a complaint by former City Councilor David Murphy that an eleventh-hour change to the ordinance was presented the day of the meeting, he shared. He expressed his understanding that there is now another eleventh-hour change.

Mrs. Krutzler reviewed the two minor changes as highlighted on the screen.

The more significant change is transferring the technical requirements/design standards for small cell facilities from the zoning ordinance to the DPW's regulations since this is their area of expertise, Councilor Dwight explained.

The larger discussion is that the FCC established regulations that don't really give them much of a say in the regulation of telecommunications facilities. They can dictate to some degree what installations look like and require them to conform to standard right-of-way regulations but they cannot stop these systems or regulate radio-frequency (RF) emissions. "It is beyond our ability to do anything counter to what the FCC is facilitating here," he stressed.

In the absence of any regulations, they needed to scramble and get something. "We've been talking about this for about seven months," he related. The versions have been changeable and adaptable because "we didn't know what we were doing," he candidly admitted.

Councilor Dwight reviewed the amendments as highlighted in yellow to change the Chapter reference from 285-53 to 285-10 and to change Section 350-10.9 D1 to make 'An application' plural and delete the reference to the DPW having 60-days to promulgate its regulations for small cell facilities. He moved to accept the latest amendments. Councilor LaBarge seconded.

Councilor Jarrett pointed out a second chapter reference in the opening paragraph that should be changed for consistency. He also pointed out a scrivener's error in 285-10 C. Councilor Dwight amended his motion to include these changes, correcting the text in 285-10 C to read as follows, "Each wireless small cell antenna on public ways (including those already installed) shall pay an annual fee of $270 for right-of-way access and inspections."

The motion to amend passed unanimously 9:0 by voice vote.

Councilor Jarrett said he has received comments from constituents and done some research since the Legislative Matters hearing. As Councilor Dwight said, they don't have the authority to regulate the use of this technology but they do have authority to regulate its placement, construction and aesthetics. The FCC has pre-empted them and has ignored calls from meteorologists who've said there will be a 30% reduction in the accuracy of weather forecasts and from medical professionals who call for more study about possible health effects. He cited the precautionary principle, which is that when an issue has the potential to cause harm and extensive scientific knowledge is lacking, they should proceed with caution and study the issues fully. We as a society have not done that around this issue, he asserted. He acknowledged the reported benefit that wireless telecommunications can bring in needed competition in the area of internet access which could lower rates. However, they have commissioned a study for a municipally-owned broadband network, which, if successful, would also bring in competition and better service, he reminded.

In this decision, they can't legally ask for this caution to be taken, but he wanted to bring in what some other cities have done, mainly in California.

Cities such as Mill Valley, California and Encinitas have enacted protective ordinances that adhere to the letter of state and federal law but are designed to discourage the use in residential areas, he reported. He read an excerpt from the Mill Valley ordinance. City officials there have limited locations to private properties within commercial zoning districts and, in the public right-of-way, to existing poles that are 1,500 feet apart. They have also required a performance bond to insure removal of the equipment when it is no longer needed. Encinitas prohibits 5G facilities within 500 feet of a home or a school, he added.

He wants to open a discussion as to whether they want to balance the regulations the FCC prescribes with the potential health concerns, Councilor Jarrett proposed. Do we want to think about this more and look at what other cities and towns have done? How do we feel about going forward without restricting the use to the extent legally possible versus trying to push that line? He asked rhetorically.

Councilor Dwight said he absolutely agrees. The absence of rules makes them very vulnerable. He understands there are at least one or two 5G towers here already. What drives his concern is that inviting competition is excellent but, on the other hand, it also means a potential bristling of towers all over the place.

He thinks what Councilor Jarrett is proposing makes very good sense but clearly requires a lot more research into what's allowed under Mass. General Law. He proposed they find out what's allowed within the limits of state law and what best serves this community. He would like to move something forward. The reason this was presented 'in a jumble' is there is some aspect of urgency in that there are wolves at the door, he quipped.

The FCC has seemingly acted without expressed concern about the intensification of radio-frequency (RF) transmissions, the proximity of humans to the installations and the impact of RF as far as any health hazards it may present, Councilor Dwight observed.

However, "in the absence of rules we are vulnerable as hell," he pointed out. "I'm with you and I'd glad to work with you" on researching and seeing what options are available, he confirmed. He still feels they should pass what they have now.

Councilor LaBarge agreed with Councilor Dwight. They can even change the language when they do a second reading, she noted.

Councilor Nash expressed his understanding that the absence of an ordinance actually opens them up to even more exposure. So this is actually granting more control.

Councilor Jarrett clarified that he is in agreement with the ordinance and would be happy to work with Councilor Dwight to see if they can strengthen it further. He agreed they should put it in place.

Councilor Maiore thanked Councilor Jarrett for doing that important research.

Councilor Sciarra called the motion to a vote, and it passed unanimously 9:0 by roll call.

20.012 An Ordinance Relative to Demolition Review for Historically-Significant Buildings - 1st reading

Councilor Sciarra read the ordinance.

Councilor Dwight moved to approve the ordinance in first reading. Councilor LaBarge seconded.

Despite fairly extensive amendments, this is basically a simple change to switch the construction date to which the demolition review applies from 1939 to 1945, Conservation/Preservation Planner Sarah Lavalley explained. Back when the demolition review ordinance was adopted in 2005, it was intended to press pause on the demolition of historic structures.

The Historical Commission has reviewed about 100 buildings in total, six of which were determined to be preferably preserved. A delay was enacted for some of them; most of them were allowed to proceed with an alternate plan such as changes to better reflect the streetscape or photo-documentation of the structure. 1900 is far earlier than what is recognized as historic at the state level so the commission is proposing a 1945 date.

In response to a question, Ms. LaValley confirmed that a list of about 50 buildings constructed between 1900 and 1939 was created.

The motion passed unanimously 9:0 by roll call vote.
