Please understand that skiing is an activity that allows for great freedom, expression, and continued challenges. However, with freedom there are risks. Inherent risks are part of alpine skiing. Changing conditions, other skiers, natural and manmade objects are part of the challenges, but collision with them can cause serious injury or death. Please abide by the skier's responsibility code to help make this trip a safe one for you and your fellow skiers. Manage your personal risk by skiing on marked trails that are for your ability and experience.
